

Disclaimer

Please read carefully.

This disclaimer applies to all services, workshops, documents, templates, reports, advisory risk reviews, risk observations, draft risk assessment support, recommendations, and advice provided by FM Doctor to the client.

Prepared for [Client] by FM Doctor where this disclaimer is included with a client-facing deliverable.

1. What We Do (and What We Do Not Do)

FM Doctor provides advisory and document-based support relating to AI readiness, AI governance, workflow, operational documentation, and related decision-support advisory services.

Unless explicitly agreed otherwise in writing, services are provided on an advice-only, non-certifying basis. FM Doctor does not:

- certify compliance or sign off safety arrangements
- act as a statutory duty holder or fulfil legal duties on the client's behalf
- provide engineering design, legal advice, or statutory inspection

2. Your Responsibility for Implementation and Compliance

Any documents, templates, recommendations, or outputs provided by FM Doctor must be reviewed, adapted where necessary, approved, and implemented by the client.

The client remains responsible for:

- deciding whether the advice is suitable for its specific circumstances
- ensuring compliance with applicable laws, regulations, standards, and guidance
- ensuring appropriate competence, approvals, and governance are in place before operational use

3. Risk Reviews and Draft Risk Assessment Support

Where FMD provides advisory risk reviews, risk observations, or draft risk assessment support, these are provided as guidance only and may be generic or based on limited information.

Any risk assessment intended for operational use remains the client's responsibility and must be reviewed, amended, approved, and owned by a competent person appointed by the client before use.

4. Regulated, Clinical, Legal, Financial, Cyber and NHS-Adjacent Boundaries

FMD does not provide legal advice, clinical advice, financial advice, cyber-security assurance, statutory inspection, compliance certification, clinical safety assurance, patient-specific decision support, medical device assessment, DPIA sign-off, DTAC or DSPT sign-off, NHS endorsement, procurement approval, or formal regulatory sign-off.

Where FMD provides advice or observations relevant to healthcare, NHS-adjacent, public-sector, or regulated environments, those outputs are advisory only.

The client remains responsible for local governance, information governance, DPIAs, clinical safety requirements where relevant, cyber/security review, procurement, implementation, compliance, and all internal approvals required before using or acting on any output.

5. No Guarantee of Outcomes

FM Doctor does not guarantee outcomes, performance improvements, cost savings, compliance, or risk reduction. Implementing advice involves judgement and operational decisions that remain the client's responsibility.

6. Reliance and Sharing

The work is prepared solely for the named client for internal use. No third party may rely on it without prior written consent.

If the work is shared internally, the client remains responsible for ensuring it is used appropriately, remains current, and is not relied on as certification or sign-off.

Internal notes, working papers, draft analysis, prompts, calculations, and preparatory materials remain FM Doctor's internal working materials unless expressly included as deliverables.

7. Information You Provide

FM Doctor relies on information and materials the client provides or makes available. FM Doctor is not responsible for consequences arising from incomplete, inaccurate, misleading, or outdated information, or from information not disclosed.

8. Tools, Technology, and AI-Assisted Drafting

FMD may use approved digital and AI-assisted tools, including ChatGPT, to support drafting, structuring, analysis, quality review, and administration. AI-assisted outputs are reviewed before delivery.

FMD does not provide automated decision-making or profiling. FMD outputs must not be used as the sole basis for clinical, legal, financial, employment, safety-critical, procurement, regulatory, or high-consequence decisions.

The client must check, validate, and approve all outputs before operational or regulated use.

9. Liability and Governing Terms

Liability is limited in accordance with the Terms of Business. Nothing in the disclaimer excludes or limits liability where it cannot legally be excluded.

If there is any conflict between the disclaimer and the Terms of Business, the Terms of Business prevail.

If there is uncertainty about whether a document, template, or piece of advice is appropriate for a situation, independent professional advice should be sought before relying on it.
